Description:

The Hugh D. and Mary T. Vazzana Property, constructed in 1938, is a 2-story, 3-bay, side-gable cottage on the south side of Hughesville School Road in Hughesville, Charles County. The building has an enclosed, shed-roof porch on the front elevation, a large front-gable addition that conceals the north elevation, a 1-story shed-roof addition on the west elevation, and a 1-story hipped-roof addition on the east elevation. The structure has an asphalt shingle side-gable roof with two wall dormers on the front elevation, and a large exterior brick chimney. The cottage is of brick construction with a concrete block foundation. There are several different window types, including 8/8, 6/6, and 4/4 double-hung wood, and 1/1 double-hung aluminum replacement windows.

Significance:

Constructed in 1938, the Hugh D. and Mary T. Vazzana Property is an undistinctive example of a common architectural type which has been altered. The 2-story rear addition, the shed-roof addition, and the hipped-roof addition have changed the form and massing of the original design. According to deed research, Hugh D. and Mary T. Vazzana purchased the 0.52 hectare (1.29 acre) lot in 1937. The parcel currently retains this size. According to the records of the Charles County Tax Assessor, a house was constructed on the land in 1938. The property was sold a number of times until the current owners, Adrian N. and Clara E. Bridgett, acquired it in 1964.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The Hugh D. and Mary T. Vazzana Property, constructed in 1938, is a 2-story, 3-bay, side-gable cottage on the south side of Hughesville School Road in Hughesville, Charles County. The building has an enclosed, shed-roof porch on the front elevation, a large front-gable addition that conceals the north elevation, a 1-story shed-roof addition on the west elevation, and a 1-story hipped-roof addition on the east elevation.

The structure has an asphalt shingle side-gable roof with two wall dormers on the front elevation and a large exterior brick chimney. The cottage is of brick construction with a concrete block foundation. There are several different window types, including 8/8, 6/6, and 4/4 double-hung wood, and 1/1 double-hung aluminum replacement windows.

The south, or front elevation, is concealed on the first story by the shed-roof porch. The porch is screened and the roof is supported by wood posts. The fenestration pattern of the cottage is symmetrical, with a centered wood door and two 8/8 double-hung windows on the first story, and two 6/6 double-hung windows in the dormers.

The west elevation is concealed on the first bay by the small shed-roof addition. The addition has a brick facade and is accessed by a wood door. There is an 8/8 double-hung window on the west elevation and a 6/6 double-hung window on the north elevation. The cottage has a large exterior brick chimney in the center of the elevation, and a symmetrical fenestration pattern on the visible parts of the facade. There is an 8/8 double-hung window on the first story, and 4/4 double-hung windows on both sides of the chimney in the gable end.

The north, or rear elevation of the cottage is completely concealed by a brick 2-story, front-gable addition. The addition has an irregular fenestration pattern, with two single and one pair of 6/6 double-hung windows on the first story, and two 6/6 double-hung windows in the gable end on the second story. A door located in the first bay of the first story has been removed and the opening has been enclosed with brick.

The east elevation of the cottage is partially concealed on the first story by a 1-story, wood-frame, hipped-roof addition. The addition has a 1/1 double-hung window on the north elevation, and a wood door and a picture window with flanking 1/1 windows on the south elevation. The visible part of the cottage has two 6/6 double-hung windows on both the first story and in the gable end. There are also concrete steps from grade to a basement door, located in the ell created by the cottage and the hipped-roof addition.

No information regarding the interior of the cottage is available.

There are two outbuildings associated with this property. The first outbuilding is a garage with an asphalt shingle, front-gable roof. Constructed circa 1940, the garage is of brick construction, and it has a roof extension to the west. The garage is located east of the cottage.

The second outbuilding is a prefabricated wood-frame shed. Erected circa 1980, the shed is located east of the cottage and garage.

Directory and State Gazetteer listed both Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches in Hughesville as well as a Friends' school, four (4) general merchandise stores, two (2) saloons, two (2) undertakers, a wheelwright, a blacksmith, a tobacco buyer, and a population of fifty (50). Gannett's 1904 Gazetteer of Maryland defined Hughesville as a "post village...on the Washington, Potomac and Chesapeake Railroad" (Gannett 1904: 43). By 1906 the community was known as "a station of the Southern Maryland Railroad...and a banking town" with two (2) physicians, two (2) general stores, two (2) blacksmiths, a grist and saw mill, a flour mill, an undertaker and livery, a hotel, a hotel and saloon, a grocer and saloon, an insurance salesman, and a population of 150 (Maryland 1906: 667).

The Hugh D. and Mary T. Vazzana Property is a vernacular side-gable cottage. Between 1870 and 1940 the vernacular cottage style was typically built for Americans of modest means. They are characterized by simple ornamentation and mass-produced components, such as door frames, moldings, sash and window units, and porch decoration. The development of post-Civil War machinery capable of producing large amounts of standardized housing elements, such as those found in cottages, contributed greatly to the development of the modern American housing industry. Designs for vernacular cottages were obtained from popular magazines, such as House Beautiful, or carpenter's and builder's journals, such as American Builder. A variety of front-gable, side-gable, cross-gable and hipped roof frame cottages were developed in the early to mid-twentieth century. Front-gable and hipped roof cottages are primarily 1 to 1½-stories tall, 3-bays wide and several rooms deep. Side-gable and cross-gable structures are usually 2 to 2½-stories tall, are typically 2 to 3-bays in width and vary from one to three rooms deep. They usually include a porch covered with a shed roof. Porches are supported by posts often containing machine-produced Victorian ornamentation. Some cottages feature ornamentation drawn from Craftsman style or Colonial Revival architecture (Gottfried and Jennings 1988, viii-xv).

National Register Evaluation:

Constructed in 1938, the Hugh D. and Mary T. Vazzana Property is not eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The property is not eligible under Criterion A, as research conducted indicates no association with any historic events or trends significant in the development of national, state or local history. Historic research indicates that the property has no association with persons who have made specific contributions to history, and therefore, it does not meet Criterion B. It is not eligible under Criterion C, as it is an undistinctive example of a common architectural type which has been altered. The 2-story rear addition, the shed-roof addition, and the hipped-roof addition have compromised the architectural integrity of the original cottage by changing its form and massing. The original roof lines have been altered by the 2-story rear addition, and the hipped-roof addition has siding material incompatible with the rest of the cottage. Finally, the structure has no known potential to yield important information, and therefore, is not eligible under Criterion D.
